CompHealth Group Honored in Utah “Best Companies” Contest

SALT LAKE CITY (May 1, 2005)—CompHealth Group (CHG) has been honored as one of the “Companies to Watch” by the 2005 Utah “Best Companies to Work For” awards committee. The annual competition was a collaboration between the state Department of Workforce Services (DWS)/Office of Child Care, Utah Business magazine, and Juxtapose Work/Life Consultants.

“This award recognizes and honors Utah companies that go above and beyond normal business operations... companies that rise above the rest,” Tani Pack Downing, executive director at DWS, wrote in her welcome letter that appeared in the awards brochure.

This year, more than 50 companies competed for this prestigious award, and CHG was one of only 15 companies to be named a finalist. According to the judging criteria, these companies demonstrated outstanding levels of ingenuity and resourcefulness in successfully meeting their workforce and business needs.

“I am extremely proud that we were named a finalist in our first year of entering the competition. However, the real reward is getting the opportunity to learn how to improve upon our company culture and best practices,” said Michael Weinholtz, CHG’s president and chief executive officer. “It’s great that CHG has been honored as a company to watch here in Utah, and we aim to improve our performance for next year’s competition.”
